

A second generation band; The Marauders, are the direct result of musicians bringing up their children next to drum sets and guitar amps. Having inherited the desire and passion to perform, there never was another option for this group.

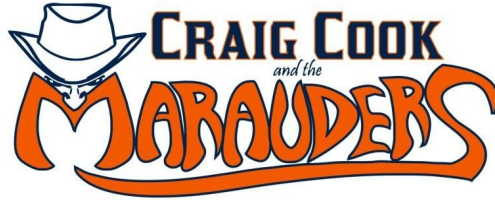

From a young age each of The Marauders had some kind of familiarity with live music and the electrifying ability it can have on one's soul. Unaware that it would, someday, lead to the combining of talents for the; now seasoned, Craig Cook and The Marauders, in 2009.

Since, the band has released a debut album, and opened for several headlining acts including: Jason Boland, Evan Felker (turnpike troubadours), William Clark Green, Casey Donahew Band, and Restless Heart. Always working on new material, the band has composed several original songs including some fan favorites such as "Shame" and "Point the Way to Texas." Keep an eye out for new music coming soon!

Playing throughout the midwest to any and all willing to listen, the band performs their original catalogue along with some of those crowd pleasing sing along anthems of the red dirt and country genres. Always looking for the next venue to call home for a few hours, The Marauders, book aggressively year around.
